

I respectfully urge you to reject the NAB's petition 04-160. XM Satellite Radio is providing a service that isn't available in any city in the US, namely 24 hour traffic and weather reporting. Since I'm willing to pay for this service, they, and any other company who is willing to take the risk and spend millions of dollars to provide it, should be able to provide it. That's what free market enterprise is all about. Instant Traffic & Weather is really a great public service, one that can save lives during severe weather outbreaks. Why would the federal government have any interest in preventing or restricting this kind of service?
